

WHO ARE MANDATED REPORTERS?

Mandated reporters, or those who must, by law, report suspicions of abuse of a child, include:

- Physicians, medical interns, hospital personnel engaged in the examination, care or treatment of persons
- Public or private schoolteachers; school nurses and coaches
- Educational administrators, guidance or family counselors
- School attendance officers, allied mental health and licensed human services professionals
- Drug and alcoholism counselors
- Daycare and child workers, including any person paid to care for, or work with, a child
- Probation officers, clerk magistrates of district courts, parole officers
- Foster parents
- Firefighters, E.M.T.s or police officers
- Psychologists, psychiatrists, and clinical social workers
- Priests, rabbis, clergy members, ordained or licensed ministers
- Volunteer coaches/leaders, if they report to the paid staff of a school or community agency.